Lane – will get the signature from the Mayor today.

See the info below; that was the reason for the delay. We should be prepared to address this.

Pam:

Attached is a copy of the Fusus agreement with terms and conditions and with my signature.

I tried to get a copy of the Fusus agreements that the city of Atlanta and Cobb County have, but have not been able to. I spoke with Debbie Blair in the Cobb Attorney's Office and she did not have a copy only the Pos. I have their purchase orders from the council actions but the actual contracts are not available. I did not want to make an Open Records Act requests as there is an organization that is very active in making ORA requests for these agreements as well as Police body cam contracts. You can probably expect a request from them if Fusus uses the City example in a press release.

In response to privacy concerns, some local governments outside of Georgia are amending these agreements in two specific areas. First, restricting the use of facial recognition technology on the platform in response to public concerns about documented biases found for minorities. Second, the use of this technology for passive surveillance when no crime has been reported.

It does not appear that Atlanta or Cobb have placed any restrictions around these two areas in their agreements.
